

AN OASIS IN A PANDEMIC

Early in the pandemic I found myself navigating through the transition “by myself” until I realized UPCEA staff and members were available to provide needed consultation on many of the issues of delivering our student services online (e.g., offsite proctored testing).

*Barbara Kopp Miller, Ph.D.
Dean, University College
University of Toledo*

"All community colleges and universities would benefit from the expertise in professional, continuing and online education that UPCEA staff and members possess."

Why is your UPCEA Institutional Membership important to you?

As a member of UPCEA, I benefit from focused research and education on professional, continuing and online education. The innovative conferences and professional networking opportunities are instrumental in providing guidance for strategic planning for online education. The individual consultations as well as the weekly policy and news updates allow me and my staff to stay up to date with what is happening on a national level.

I reach out to UPCEA staff when I need professional advice on how to move forward with University of Toledo initiatives. Their vast national knowledge of current trends and issues assists me in developing data-driven decisions and strategies.

Participating in the virtual conferences has provided the professional networking that is necessary to be successful in the current academic environment.

"UPCEA staff are always available for consultation and are easily accessible."